Disassembling landscape
DISASSEMBLING LANDSCAPE.
APPLIED ENVIRONMENTAL ARCHAEOLOGY AND HISTORICAL ECOLOGY

edited by Alessandro Panetta, Valentina Pescini, Vanessa Py-Saragaglia

Alessandro Panetta, Valentina Pescini, Vanessa Py-Saragaglia, Introduction ................................................................. 273

Diego Moreno, Storia ambientale applicata. L'archeologia delle risorse ambientali e l'ecologia storica dei siti ...................... 281

Nicola Gabellieri, Alessandro Panetta, Valentina Pescini, The «5T.ERA» project. Bridging research with application for the management of the Cinque Terre rural landscape .............................................. 311

Jean-Paul Metailié, France Daupras, Johanna Faerber, «Back fire»: the current place of burning practices in the rural landscapes of the Pyrenees. From pastoral management to ecological debate ........................................................................ 343

Vanessa Py-Saragaglia, Marie-Claude Bal, Cécile Brun, Sandrine Buscaino, Sylvie Guillerme, Magali Philippe, Mélanie Saulnier, Calvin Gabriel Tamas, Sylvain Burri, Carine Calastrenc, Nicolas Poirier, Mihaela Danu, Alexandru Ioan, François de Vleeschouwer, Antoine Brin, Sylvie Ladet, Laurent Larbieu, Géa Le Roux, Marcel Mindrescu, Ancuta Petras, Mélanie Roy, Knowledge and conservation of Old-Growth Forests: a key issue to face global changes. The case study of Strâmbu-Băia - Maramureș (Eastern Carpathians, Romania) 369
INTRODUCTION

In the context of cultural and environmental the problem of combining historical research vi tual application have been widely discussed in tual application is intimately connected to an earlier issue, publ Applied History. On that occasion, the inten tion "request for history", defining his condi	This approach intends to contribute to "the c	This approach intends to contribute to "the c	Unlike historical studies, which have only
Italy, geographers have shown interc	They have addressed the problem of appl	In Italy, geographers have shown interc	They have addressed the problem of appl	It is derived, rather, from the capacity to construct and deconstruc	historians does not derive from their knowe
the communicators of history", as illu	public historians, especially in relation to publ
ted, defining its condi	answers formulated until then; but, also to chal
tion "Public History". It is derived, rather, f	from the capacity to construct and deconstruc	This approach intends to contribute to "the c	This approach intends to contribute to "the c	objects that involve the dialogue between diff understood; and this is what this special issue i	to the communicative aspects". Nonetheless, archaeologists have dealt with the e evironmental management, namely with reg

QUADERNI STORICI 164 / a. LV, n. 2, ago sto 2020